Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference Opens

West Appeals to Russia to Back Atom Peace Plan

Plea Directed to Molotov by French Minister Bidault

BERLIN (UP)—The West appealed to Russia today, at the opening of a Big Four conference, to back President Eisenhower's atom-peace plan as the first real hope of sweeping away the danger of all-out atomic warfare.

Speaking for the foreign ministers of the United States, Great Britain and France, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said:

"Peace is urgent everywhere. The bold offer of the President of the United States offers, for the first time, the possibility of envisaging progress toward a solution of the problem of the atomic threat."

Bidault was addressing an appeal directly to Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov as the ministers met around a hollow square table in the former Allied Control Authority building in the American sector of West Berlin.

It was the first meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers since the summer of 1949.

Molotov was expected, as his big move, to explode a "peace bomb" in the form of an offer to end the cold war and give sweeping security guarantees in exchange for a neutralized Germany and the scrapping of the Western defense alliances.

Bidault said also the cornerstone of any European peace settlement must be the conclusion of German and Austrian treaties.

He warned Molotov the West considers a free all-German election the indispensable first step toward German unification.

Official sources disclosed the three Western powers have approved a six-point plan for all-German elections, insuring their freedom and honesty.

Since the conference was called primarily for discussion of German unification and the long-delayed Austrian treaty, the Western ministers were resolved to deal briefly with such extraneous issues as bringing Communist China into the parley.

Molotov clearly revealed his intention to bring up the Red China issue when he arrived in the Eastern sector Saturday and the Western ministers anticipated he would make this move immediately.

Charles M. Warmelink, Five-Months-Old Son of Former Residents, Dies

Charles Michael Warmelink, five months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warmelink of Hammond, Ind., died today at 2 a. m. at St. Margaret's hospital where he had been since Dec. 8. His death was due to leukemia.

The mother is the former Lorene Sneed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Sneed, now of Hammond, Ind., but formerly of Harrisburg.

The baby is also survived by a sister, Teresa Lynn, 3, and its paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warmelink of Harrisburg.

The body was returned to Harrisburg this afternoon by the Turner funeral service. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

HTHS Speech Students Win Superior, Excellent Ratings in Festival

At the annual high school speech festival that was held in Carbondale Friday and Saturday all students who entered won Harrisburg came home with the ratings of excellent or superior.

Those who won superior were Pat Foster, who gave a serious reading on "Mary of Scotland"; Marjorie Zimmer, serious, "Joan of Arc"; and Judy Belt, humorous, "Arsenic and Old Lace." Those receiving the rating of excellent were Marilyn Werkmeister, serious, "Dawn"; Judy Morse, serious, "Wuthering Heights," and Frank Chase, radio speaking.

Others who went along were Judy Farrar, Nancy Fulkerson, Marilyn Goltosky, Dwan Martin, Kenneth Berry, Shirley Karnes and Mrs. Eddy, the speech instructor.

Candidates Rush to Beat Deadline for Entering Names in Illinois Primary

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—A flurry of activity was expected today as candidates rushed to beat the deadline for entering their names in the April 13 Illinois primary election.

Last-minute candidates were filing nominating petitions here and in county clerks' offices throughout the state. The deadline at the secretary of state's office here was 5 p. m. today.

Among those expected here today was Austin L. Wyman, ex-president of the Chicago Crime Commission, who said he would join the crowded race for the Republican nomination to the U. S. Senate.

John B. Crane, Chicago, an unknown on the state political scene, filed his petitions for the GOP senatorial nomination today.

Crane was the chief administrative assistant to former Republican Sen. George W. Malone of Nevada and served as an advisor and economist to Gen. Lucius D. Clay in Germany.

Crane, 50, also served as senior economist for the U. S. Department of Commerce and taught economics at Harvard, Radcliffe and Northwestern.

Others mentioned as possibilities for filing for the GOP senatorial race were Chicago Alderman Herbert F. Geisler; Edward O'Brien, Chicago public relations man; and Edgar Elbert of Maywood, former international president of the Lions Clubs.

That battle definitely shapes up as the one which will draw most attention in the coming primary election campaign.

Five hopefuls had formally entered the race for the GOP Senate nomination last week—Park Livingston, La Grange; Deneen Watson, Chicago; Edward A. Hayes, Chicago; Julius Klein, Chicago, and Joseph T. Meek, Western Springs.

At Chicago, 5th Ward GOP Committeeman Charles Fleck issued a statement denying that his support of Hayes for senator meant that Gov. William G. Stratton was behind Hayes' candidacy.

Fleck, who led a "blitz" for Hayes and lined up 17 other ward committeemen for the former American Legion commander, was active in Stratton's campaign in 1952, but he said "I know that Gov. Stratton is maintaining a strictly neutral position."

On the Democratic side, incumbent U. S. Sen. Paul H. Douglas, Chicago, who filed for renomination last week, had not encountered any primary opposition as the filing period entered its final day.

A similar situation was developing for Democratic races for the two other offices to be filled by statewide balloting this year—state treasurer and state superintendent of public instruction.

Organization candidates for those offices were David F. Mallet, East St. Louis, and Mark A. Peterman, Springfield, respectively. Neither had any opposition from other Democrats up to today.

Republican Vernon L. Nickell, Champaign, seeking his fourth term as state superintendent of public instruction, failed to attract any GOP opposition in the primary through last week's filings.

For the GOP state treasurer nomination, a fight was brewing. Conrad F. Becker, Red Bud, and State Rep. R. J. Branson, Centralia, filed their petitions for this nomination last week.

Warren W. Wright, Park Ridge, filed for the GOP treasurer race today.

Present state treasurer is Republican Elmer J. Hoffman, Wheaton, who is barred by the State Constitution from succeeding himself.

LaFoe Bradleys to Make Home in Florida

LaFoe Bradley, manager of the liquid oxygen plant near Sahara 5 and 6 coal and mines for the past 18 years, and Mrs. Bradley are leaving next week for Cocoa, Fla., to reside.

Mr. Bradley has received a leave of absence from Air Force base here, his employer, to accept a post with American Airways at Patrick Air Force base near Cocoa.

WEBQ Schedules 'Radio for Polio' Marathon Program Wednesday Evening

Plans formulated and announced early in December by officials of WEBQ will become a reality Wednesday evening, Jan. 27, with the presentation of a "Radio-for-Polio" marathon jamboree. The show, beginning at 5 p. m., may be heard on both WEBQ and WEBQ-FM, and local and national police funds are expected to be swelled by the contributions received as a result of the program.

The star-studded "Radio-for-Polio" marathon will bring to WEBQ audiences such nationally famous names as the Boston Symphony; Patti Page; the Sauter-Finnegan orchestra; Hank Snow, "The Singing Ranger"; Tommy Dorsey and his trombone; Julius LaRosa of Godfrey's "no humility" fame; the Jane Wyman-Basil O'Connor show, and others.

Local announcer interviews with the following stars will be heard at intervals during the jamboree: "Her Nibs," Georgia Gibbs; Eddie Fisher; Les Paul and Mary Ford; Sarah Vaughn; Don Cornell, and The Three Suns.

In addition such stars of national note as Sammy Kaye, Guy Lombardo, Vaughn Monroe, Connie Haines, Garry Moore, Janet Blair, Eddie Cantor, Joseph Cotton, Tex Ritter, Jimmy Wakely, Greer Garson, Eddie Albert, Smiley Burnette, Robert Cummings, Eileen Barton, Tony Bennett, Nat "King" Cole, Jerry Colonna, Bing Crosby, Sheilah Graham, Basil Rathbone,

WSIL-TV Polio Telethon Pledges Total $4,247

Six-Hour Program Features Southern Illinois Talent

WSIL-TV's Saturday night telethon lasting more than six hours brought in pledges totalling $4,247.42 for the March of Dimes campaign, Jim Bolen, program director, announced today.

The telethon, which featured top southern Illinois talent plus special March of Dimes films from Hollywood, started at 10 p. m. and ran until 4:15 a. m. Five telephones in the studio were kept busy with pledges from southern Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky. The pledges came from 15 counties.

An auction held along with the program enticed the pledging with additional dollars being brought in through auctioning of many items, including a pony, saddle and bridle, donated by the Rotary club of Harrisburg which initiated the telethon idea.

Items Auctioned
Floyd Guldge of St. Louis, formerly of this area, was high bidder for the pony, getting it with a bid of $260.

A lounge chair donated by Lloyd L. Parker went to Mrs. Warren Tuttle of Harrisburg and a typewriter donated by Henry's Type-writer Service of Harrisburg brought $91 from John Oliver of McLeansboro.

Other items donated and the successful bid and bidder:
Cake baked by Mrs. Marion Ozment, who lives west of Harrisburg, to LeRoy Barham for $27.50.
Cooler filled with Falstaff donated by Egyptian Beverage Co., to Mary Ann Humm for $14.

Television schedules, giving weekly schedules of several stations for six months, donated by Melody Lane of Marion; to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McClusky, Mr. and Mrs. George Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Looney Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Bill King, all of Harrisburg, and Ronald Schmitts of Herrin.

UHF Converter and kit, donated by Pate Roofing Co. of Marion, to Bob Yearack of Marion.
Polio Victims Introduced
Cases of Budweiser donated by Egyptian Beverage Co. to Roy Thompson, Bill T. Rees, Kenneth Boyett, R. W. Seibert and C. A.

E. B. Stephenson, 90, Dies at Eldorado

Edward B. Stephenson, 90, 909 Adams street, died at the Eldorado Nursing home Sunday at 5:30 a. m. He was a retired janitor of the Eldorado high school.

He is survived by his wife, Etta, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Louise Hedger, Eldorado, and three grandchildren. Mrs. Martin Wetlaw, a sister of Mrs. Stephenson, was raised in their home.

The body now lies at the Martin funeral home where the funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. Elder T. Leo Dodd and Rev. C. C. Lowe will officiate, and burial will be Wesley cemetery.

Don B. Garrison Seeks Re-Election As County Clerk

Don B. Garrison has announced his candidacy for county clerk on the Democratic ticket in the April primary election.

Mr. Garrison, who has served as county clerk for the past seven years, is basing his campaign on his service to the taxpayers during his time in office and the fact that during the seven years he has gained experience that makes him better qualified to hold the post.

A native of Eldorado, Garrison is a disabled veteran of World War II. He and his wife, Edna, and their three-year-old daughter, Letitia, reside west of Harrisburg on Route 13 in Carrier Mills township.

Eisenhower Presents 8-Point Housing Program to Congress

Asks Extension of Public Housing; Long Term Insured Loans

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower laid before Congress today an eight-point program to clear slums, repair old homes, build new ones and see to it that "every American family can have a decent home."

Mr. Eisenhower's program included a recommendation that the public housing program be extended at least four years with provision for building 140,000 new units during that time at a rate of 35,000 units a year.

The eight-point housing program was based on recommendations of a special advisory committee on government housing policies headed by Albert M. Cole, head of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Mr. Eisenhower preface his proposals by saying that while the federal government should provide "aggressive and positive leadership" in the drive to make good housing available to all Americans, he wants to avoid programs that will make citizens increasingly dependent on the federal government.

Asks New FHA Program
"We believe that needed progress can be made by full and effective utilization of our competitive economy," he said.

"I am convinced that every American family can have a decent home if the builders, lenders, and communities and the local state and federal governments, as well as the individual citizens, will put their abilities and determination energetically to the task."

In his recommendation on housing for low income families, Mr. Eisenhower also proposed that the

Brother and Sister Seriously Hurt in Crash

Two young persons were seriously injured in an auto crash early Saturday night on Route 34 at Pier school.

They were Mary Endicott, 15, and her brother, James Endicott, 12, who were riding in an auto driven by their uncle, Sam Knight, well-known Harrisburg barber.

The other car was driven by James Richard Brazell, 36, of Rosiclar, who was taken to the Lightner hospital suffering injuries.

State Policeman Adolph Sweat, who reported that Brazell ran into the path of the Knight car, said that he planned to file charges against the Rosiclar man.

Brazell was removed from the hospital to the county jail shortly before noon today on charges of driving while intoxicated, illegal transportation of liquor and operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.

The Endicott girl received serious cuts, her head going through the windshield, as well as other injuries. The boy suffered a concussion.

They are in the Harrisburg hospital. Mr. Knight received treatment for knee and head injuries and was not hospitalized.

The Endicott boy and girl are children of Mrs. Marie Endicott, ill at her home at 910 South Washington street. Mr. Knight had picked them up after he had closed his barber shop Saturday evening and was taking them to his farm home in Independence township.

Six to Leave For Induction

A group of six Saline county young men will leave for induction into the service Wednesday morning, going to the St. Louis induction station, the Saline County Selective Service Board announced today.

Leaving by bus will be: Edward Eugene Grumley, Norris City; Arthur Lee Debes, Harrisburg; Donald Earl Minner, Harrisburg; Elmer Lavern Hammond, Eldorado; Stanley Rhine Grisham, Eldorado; Walter Harvey Tanner, Harrisburg.

Eldorado Voters Reject Purchase Of Water System

A proposition for the city of Eldorado to purchase the Eldorado water system was voted down Saturday by a majority of slightly less than 2 to 1, according to the unofficial, but complete count.

There were a total of 1,390 votes cast, with voters expressing their opinion on two propositions — 1. The purchase of the water system and 2. Terms of the proposed purchase.

There were 440 votes in favor of purchasing the system and 782 opposed. On the terms of purchase 429 voted yes and 777 no. There were 145 spoiled ballots.

The water system had been offered to the city at a price of $825,000. The purchase would have been completed by issuing water revenue bonds, bearing 4 1/2 per cent interest.

The original crash occurred about 400 miles northwest of the snowy peak of Kilimanjaro, which the white-bearded Hemingway immortalized in the short story, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro." It later was made into a movie.

Hemingway was touring Africa on a writing assignment for "Look" magazine. He left New York last fall accompanied by his wife and a magazine photographer.

Hemingway, who won the Pulitzer Prize for fiction in 1953 with his short novel, "The Old Man and the Sea," started writing as a reporter on the Kansas City Star when he was 19.

Born in Oak Park, Ill., July 21, 1898, Hemingway seemed fated to lead a life of adventure.

When his father tried to make him a doctor and his mother wanted him to become a cellist, he ran away from home at the age of 15. A strapping 6-footer, he wanted to be a prizefighter.

However, he returned home, finished high school, went to work for the Star, and the same year — 1917 — quit and went to Italy with a Red Cross ambulance unit.

He transferred to the Italian infantry and was wounded.

After the war, he settled in Paris as a newspaper correspondent and started his writing in earnest. His work generally was ignored until his "A Farewell To Arms" appeared in 1929. It was an instant hit and the short, staccato style of his sentences became the model for a generation of writers.

He went to the Spanish Civil War as a news correspondent in the 1930's, but roamed the battle area with the daring of a soldier. He was almost killed by a shell.

Just as "A Farewell To Arms" came out of his World War I experiences, the novel, "For Whom The Bell Tolls," came out of his adventures in the Spanish Civil War.

When World War II came along Hemingway waded back into the battles of China and Europe. He was almost killed in a London taxi cab wreck this time.

But again he came back to write of his adventures, as he has this time from the jungles of Africa.

He now makes his home in Cuba with the fourth Mrs. Hemingway, also a writer.

There they boarded a rescue plane which crashed and burned as it attempted to take off. Again, the Hemingways and the crew were not injured.

This time they were taken to Masindi by a police rescue party, and then headed by road for Entebbe, where the nearest airfield is located. This was 175 miles south, on the north shore of famed Lake Victoria.

Earlier, Capt. R. C. Jude, pilot of a British Overseas Airways Corporation BOAC plane, had sighted the wreckage of the original crash and reported no sign of life, although he felt the Hemingways had survived.

"The plane was not badly damaged," he said. "There was no sign of human life, but six big elephants were prowling around the plane."

On Writing Assignment
Jude said he made a refueling stop at Entebbe and was told the Hemingways' Cessna monoplane had been missing since noon of Jan. 23.

Writer, Wife Uninjured in African Jungle

First Plane Crashes On Big Game Hunt; Rescue Ship Burns

KAMPALA, Uganda (UP)—Ernest Hemingway, one of the world's greatest living writers, and his wife survived two jungle airplane crashes without injury and were on their way back to civilization today.

The 55-year-old Hemingway and his fourth wife, the former Mary Welsh of Chicago, Ill., crashed first in a chartered airplane Saturday while on a big game expedition in the wild upper Nile country, three miles from Murchison Falls.

The plane was only slightly damaged and the Hemingways were rescued by a launch carrying tourists from Murchison Falls Sunday.

They were brought to Butiaba on the shores of Lake Albert, deep in the jungles of East Central Africa.

CORPORAL WILLIAM D. SANDAGE, a member of the 519th Military Police Battalion, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Sandage, reside at 622 North Webster, Harrisburg, Ill., is shown holding a Korean orphan at an orphanage high in the mountains of Korea. On Christmas day of 1953, Cpl. Sandage, with other men from the 519th Military Police Battalion, journeyed to the orphanage with gifts of clothing, food, candy, and toys which were sent by people from the United States and Puerto Rico to provide the forty homeless children at the orphanage with a Christmas.

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Uncle Dan Reed Rams Tax Changes Through Ways And Means Committee; Wall Street Gives Secret Advice On Tax Laws; Democrats Complain At Reed's Bulldozing Tactics.

WASHINGTON. — Uncle Dan Reed of New York, venerable chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means committee, may have high-hatted President Eisenhower, but he's being deliberately high-handed with the Democratic members of his own committee.

When the President invited Reed to the White House to discuss taxes, the 78-year-old "law-into-himself" congressman sailed off to Panama. Now back in Washington, he is ramming complicated changes in the tax laws through his committee as if operating an M-8 tank.

In the past, Uncle Dan was a stickler for methodical consideration of tax legislation. He demanded that congressmen be given time to study each amendment. "We're going to take plenty of time to study the recommendations of the Treasury Department," he used to say, "but we're going to write this bill ourselves. Neither the Treasury nor anyone else is going to pre-empt the constitutional functions of the committee in writing the tax laws."

That, of course, was during a period when the Democrats were largely in control of the Ways and Means committee. Now that he is in control, Uncle Dan has reversed himself, demands quick "take-it-or-leave-it" votes under parliamentary rules. Furthermore, the votes are on amendments drafted by Colin Stamm, the tax adviser who in turn confers with outside "professionals."

SECRET TAX ADVISERS
Just who those "professionals" are was even long kept secret from the Democratic members of the Ways and Means committee. Since the tax laws have to be obeyed by every taxpayer, large or small, the laws are supposed to be reviewed in open hearings where every taxpayer can know what views are expressed by what groups.

However, current tax advice has been given secretly without even the names of the advisers known—until recently. Now, Democratic members have learned that the advisers include:

1. Roswell Magill, a top Wall Street tax attorney and former governor of the New York stock exchange, who has long advised lower rates for corporations and high-bracket payers.

2. John Hanes, Wall Street investment banker, director of the United States Lines, Mutual Life Insurance, Bankers' Trust and various other big corporations, and among other things, the largest orchid grower in the world.

RAMROD TACTICS
At present, Ways and Means committeemen are being asked to pass on the new amendments, drafted with the advice of these and other Wall Street counselors, and Chairman Reed demands that they pass on them in a hurry and under parliamentary law.

Parliamentary law is important. It means that if a congressman, on further study of a tax amendment, changes his mind, he cannot move to have the committee reconsider, unless he voted against the amendment in the first place.

In other words, if a quick vote is taken on a highly complicated amendment, such as a tax on an-nities, there can be no revision, even though a Democratic member produces some new information that the amendment is against the public interest. Only recourse is for a majority, or Republican, member to move to reconsider.

"In the past we have always voted tentatively on tax amendments until we have had an opportunity to fully analyze them," a Democrat recently complained to Reed. "Do you mean to say that committee members can no longer change our votes as we used to do?"

"We will proceed under the parliamentary rules," crisply replied the congressman from Dunkirk, N. Y.

SENATOR MORSE HAS FUN
Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, the independent who was kicked off his important committee assignments with the connivance of GOP Senate Leader Knowland and Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson, has several ace cards up his sleeve. And a lot of Democrats who appreciated Morse's help in the Stevenson-Eisenhower election campaign are goading him from the sidelines.

Among other things, Morse can demand a separate dining room for his independent party. At present both the Democrats and the Republicans have separate dining rooms, and as a regular, constituted party, he can demand the same right.

Morse can also demand a separate cloakroom. The Republicans have their cloakroom where senators can read the newspapers, catnap and discuss political gossip when they aren't on the Senate floor. The Democrats likewise have their own cloakroom. So Morse can now demand a cloakroom for his independent party.

But most important of all Morse has the power to prolong Senate debates almost indefinitely. Under Senate rules, it takes unanimous consent to limit a debate unless the senators want to make a major fight and vote on invoking cloture. Southern senators do not and will not do this. They zealously guard the right to talk indefinitely.

Therefore, Senator Lyndon Johnson and the southern senators, any of whom voted against Morse, cannot complain when he objects to limiting debate. One vote by him can keep the entire Senate in session for several days extra.

Furthermore, southern senators who are strong states-rights can't object when Morse talks about the

U. S. Plans to Cut Military Force To 2,815,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States plans to cut its military strength to 2,815,000 after 1957, according to Asst. Defense Secretary John M. Hannah.

His statement was the first official revelation of the total strength planned for the "long haul" under the Eisenhower administration "new look" military program.

Hannah also said the United States will pull its troops out of Europe and Asia "when the situation permits." He stressed however that "no one is talking about moving our men out of the Far East before that area is secure against new aggression and that U. S. troops won't be moved out of Europe 'soon'."

OES TO PRESENT 3-ACT COMEDY 'FLYING HIGH' ON FEBRUARY 5 AND 6

"Flying High," an hilarious three-act home talent comedy, will be presented in Carrier Mills under the sponsorship of the Order of Eastern Star on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 5 and 6, at 7:30 p. m. in the grade school gym.

The action in "Flying High" takes place in the lobby of a small town resort hotel, "Purdy's Last Resort," owned and operated by an old rascal, Jeb T. Purdy. A curious assemblage of guests at the hotel gives the opportunity for many mirth-provoking situations.

Mrs. Augusta Van Sneerington, a supposedly wealthy "Snobocrat," and her "lithping" son, Robert, meet Professor Boomer K. Barnsmeller, who is on a top mission for the government, so secret even he has not learned what it is all about. Gabrielle (Gaby) Hawkins is the nosy neighbor who knows all, sees all, and tells it. Titus Pincham is the villain who is trying to get the hotel away from Jeb and his granddaughter, Mary Lou Milford, but the villain is foiled by the hero, Ted Sterling, young inventor in love with Mary Lou. Other characters are Beulah Potts, outspoken comic colored maid, and Betty Green, breezy friend of Mary Lou.

"Flying High" will give the people of Carrier Mills an opportunity for an evening of fun, seeing friends and neighbors taking part in the gay comedy and at the same time helping the Eastern Star chapter in its work.

Blind Americans
Today there are more than 260,000 blind Americans. They make up a metropolis of darkness larger than the population of Providence, Miami, Dayton or Omaha. Another 1,000,000 men and women are blind in one eye; and thousands of Americans have vision that is only barely useful.

Three Children Die in Fire

MATTOON, Ill. (UP)—Three children died in a fire in their home Sunday but a fourth leaped to safety from a second-floor window. Tommy Whitley, 2, and his sisters, Cathy, 9, and Norma, 11, suffocated from smoke in their bedrooms.

Walter Jr., 14, leaped to safety and was treated for an overdose of smoke. A fire lieutenant also was overcome.

Walter said he had been babysitting for his brother and sisters while the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whitley, were attending a party.

Officials said the fire apparently started near the basement furnace.

ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Malone of Galatia announce the engagement of their daughter, Anita Louise, to Harrison Lee (Buddy) Peyton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Peyton, Galatia. Anita is a student at Southern Illinois university and Buddy is a ministerial student at Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky. They are planning a late summer wedding.

McCarthy Seeks Return of Demos To Committee

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) today gave up his "one-man" rule over hiring and firing staff employees of his Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee in an effort to bring Democratic members back to the group.

Three Democratic senators, who resigned from the subcommittee last July in protest against the rule, were present at a subcommittee "conference" when McCarthy and three other Republican members voted unanimously to rescind the rule.

Hereafter, the hiring and firing will be done by a majority of the subcommittee, McCarthy said. The Democrats—Sens. John L. McClellan (Ark.), Stuart Symington (Mo.) and Henry M. Jackson (Wash.)—declined to say immediately if they will rejoin the subcommittee.

Flare Up Over Matthews

The Democrats asked for "a couple of hours to talk over some things," McCarthy reported. He said he and other Republican members—Sens. Karl E. Mundt (S.D.), Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) and Charles E. Potter (Mich.)—will meet the Democrats again at mid-afternoon to get their decision.

Mundt, acting as "mediator" in the dispute, made the motion to rescind the controversial rule which gave McCarthy as committee chairman virtually absolute authority over hiring and firing staff members.

The Democratic boycott of McCarthy's subcommittee flared after J. B. Matthews, the group's former chief investigator, wrote a magazine article last summer charging the Protestant clergy was Communist infiltrated.

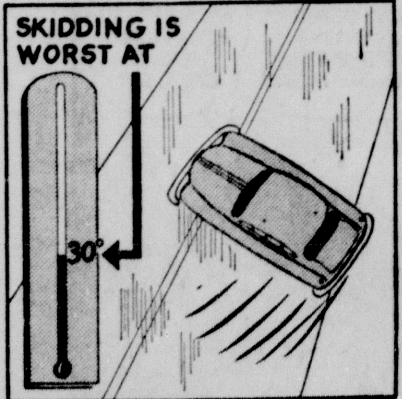

The Democrats demanded his ouster. McCarthy balked. Matthews later resigned, but subcommittee Republicans backed up McCarthy's stand in principle by adopting the special rule. The Democratic members then walked out.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Stopping your car on icy pavements is always a tricky operation, but it is much more difficult when the temperature is about 30 degrees than it is at lower temperatures. During winter months, it is a good idea to pay considerable attention to the thermometer in judging your stopping distances.

As the temperature rises to the point where ice can melt, a thin film of water forms on the surface of the ice, making it much slicker than it is at lower temperatures. Tests conducted by the National Safety Council show that a car traveling at 20 miles an hour requires 110 feet to stop on ice when the temperature is at zero. But when the temperature rises to 20 degrees, the same car traveling at the same speed requires 250 feet—more than twice the distance. And that is 10 times the distance required to stop a car going 20 miles an hour on dry pavement!

Watch the thermometer during the winter months, especially if you must make a long drive. When you start out in the morning, the temperature may be only 15 or 20 degrees, but later in the day it may move up to 30 or 35, and the danger goes up with it.

Choisser Lightens Sentences of Cole and Tarlton

Two persons who had been sentenced to one year on the state farm at Vandalia by County Judge Ralph W. Choisser have had their sentences lessened.

Judge Choisser last week granted petitions for probation filed by John Vincent Cole and Bratcher Tarlton.

Cole, who pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated after his car hit three others in front of the Harrisburg Presbyterian church, first was given the state farm sentence. Later he was granted probation for one year, was fined $200 plus $25.90 court costs and was ordered to make restitution for damage to the automobiles.

Tarlton had been given a year upon his plea of guilty to a charge of wife and child abandonment. Judge Choisser said that Tarlton and his wife had effected a reconciliation and that he had placed him on probation for one year. Tarlton paid court costs of $114.

Henry William Herbert, who wrote under the pseudonym of "Frank Forester," was the first sports writer in America.

Mrs. Marion King, 76, Dies in Pope County

Mrs. Mallie King, 76, wife of Marion King, died Sunday at 4 p. m. at her home in the Rosebud community in Pope county southwest of Golconda.

Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Earl Cox, the postmaster at Rosebud, and Mrs. Madge King at home.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Antioch Baptist church. Rev. Jewell Johnson, pastor of the Baptist church at Muddy, will conduct the service, and burial will be in the church cemetery. The Hoffman funeral home in Golconda will be in charge.

Witness Tells Of Girl's Death In Tongay Trial

MIAMI (UP)—Gustav Peterson, who was a "missing smart guy" witness last week, testified today that he saw little Kathy Tongay surface and "let out a yell" while trying to swim the length of a swimming pool underwater on the day she died.

Peterson said he watched 5-year-old Kathy and her brother, Bubba, make "two or three" dives from the 33-foot level while he was sitting in his tower suite at the McFadden - Beauville Hotel last May 6. A few hours later Kathy died from a ruptured intestine.

Her father, ex-Coastguardsman Russell Tongay is on trial for manslaughter.

slaughter. He is accused of causing his daughter's death by ordering her to make high dives.

Shortly after Peterson's testimony, the state rested its case and Judge Ben Willard overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

The judge, who called Peterson a "smart guy" when he failed to show up for the trial Friday, excused Peterson's absence. Willard told him that the fact "you came back at your own expense without causing any trouble... makes it all right."

Peterson testified he heard Kathy "whimper" and saw her hesitate at the top of the tower before jumping. He said after two or three dives the acquatots started to swim the length of the pool underwater while their father watched.

The defense was expected to offer several witnesses on the skill of diving before placing Russell Tongay and his school-teacher wife on the stand.

Approve Tax Relief for Special Groups

WASHINGTON — The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to give special tax relief to widows, widowers and legally separated persons who have to hire nurses or baby sitters to take care of small children.

The committee, considering a 14-billion-dollar tax relief program, approved a proposal under which a working widow, widower or legally separated person with one or more children under 10 years of age could take a special tax deduction of up to $600 a year for child care expenses.

This proposal was included in the 25-point tax revision program recommended by President Eisenhower in his Budget Message to Congress last week. The committee previously had approved nine other tax relief proposals specifically made by the President.

The special tax deduction for child care expenses would not be extended to married couples, except in cases where the husband is incapable of self-support.

Explaining the committee decision to limit the deduction to the special group, Committee Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) said:

"We recognized that there might be some justification for extending relief in this area but decided that the tax laws should not encourage mothers to leave the home except in cases of dire necessity."

The proposed change in the law, which still will have to be approved

McCarthy Group Report Finds Radar Espionage

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's Permanent Investigating subcommittee says there very definitely was "espionage" at the Army's radar center in Fort Monmouth, N. J.

In a 55-page annual report on its investigations, the subcommittee said Sunday night that executed atomic spy Julius Rosenberg, Joel Barr and other Red agents stole the proximity fuse and similar secrets from the base.

There is a possibility that some members of the Rosenberg ring "may still be employed and in operation" there, the report said. It also alleged that Communist spies operated successfully "in other similar places."

But the report did not cite any specific cases of recent spying although McCarthy (R-Wis.) said in a Newsweek magazine interview last week that his group turned up "very recent espionage" at Fort Monmouth.

The Army had said that its investigation of security conditions at the big radar center produced no evidence of espionage. Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens conceded, however, that there may have been some during Rosenberg's time, in the mid-1940s.

The subcommittee said it is "inclined toward" the request of Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., for authority to use wire-tap evidence in espionage, sabotage and other "national security" prosecutions.

In addition, Bolen auctioned off his clothing (suit excluded) and the articles brought the following: Shoe strings, Andy Ego of Eldorado, $3.50; tie, L. J. Bowers of Norris City, $20; socks, Dr. W. E. Rutherford of Du Quoin, $10; shorts, Chester Estes of South Leford, Harrisburg, $6; comb, Mickey Gooch, Harrisburg, $1; handkerchief, T. P. Club, Harrisburg, $4.

Pledges were not accepted at the television station, but all those pledging were urged to send in their money to their county chairman promptly. Saline county chairman of the March of Dimes campaign is A. M. Hetherington.

Max S. Tison, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Tison of Route 3, Eldorado, and husband of Mrs. Sydina Tison, Route 4, Harrisburg, is now aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Oriskany in the Far East. While in port for routine maintenance, the Oriskany was boarded by a host of movie-land notables to film the movie version of James Michener's current novel, "The Bridges at Toko-Ri." Hundreds of Oriskany personnel appeared in many of the scenes throughout the movie.

S-Sgt Charles Pickering* has returned to Chanute Air Force base after spending a nine day leave with his mother, Mrs. Bert Pickering. Sgt. Pickering will complete eight years of service in March and has three years left on this enlistment. He has been at Chanute for the past four years. His address is 3356 Training Sq., Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

Harrisburg postmaster.

At the outset of the Saturday night program polio victims living in Saline county, mostly small children, were introduced to the big audience.

Mr. Hetherington today said that in addition to the television program, the American Legion's Pitch for Polio here Saturday netted $241, a benefit basketball game at Carrier Mills brought $175.18, and Local Union 115, Progressive Mine Workers of America, turned in a check for $125.

I'd already pieced out the background of the story before Ben Helm began. Dina had been ambitious, no longer content for her husband to remain merely a district attorney, so she reminded him of his election promise to send Willie Shad to jail. In order to get evidence, he enlisted the aid of Russ Handy.

"Larkin had given Handy his job. Handy had no ties to local politics and seemed devoted to his boss. Devoted especially to the wife of his boss, but Larkin didn't suspect that. He assigned Handy to tap Shad's wire without a court order which would have put Maudson wise. It wasn't a one-man job; Handy could manage to spend only a few hours an evening on the tap. But on the third night something important came through — Maudson's phone call to Shad for campaign money. That was dirt on Maudson rather than on Shad, and Handy started getting ideas how he could use it to his own advantage. When a couple of nights later he got on record your call, Mr. Helm, he had ready his stuff."

"The congressman poured himself another drink.

"When Larkin learned he was going to be nominated for judge, he dropped the wiretapping," Helm went on. "But Handy made transcripts anyhow."

Helm shook his head. "Handy assumed that Dina preferred him to Larkin and that the only reason she didn't want to make it permanent was that he didn't earn much of a living. He showed her the records and the transcripts in a briefcase and told her that in return for them he could make over to him the $50,000 you'd received from Shad.

"She put Handy off by telling him that she would think his plan over. And then he found her gone, and with her the briefcase."

Helm's glass was empty. He shook his head when Hannah rose to refill it.

"Handy couldn't go after her without giving himself away to her husband and his boss. The next day he phoned her, but she was out. Then in the early afternoon Larkin returned to his office like a wild man. He ordered everybody to drop everything and search for Mrs. Larkin, and he called Handy into his private office.

"Larkin charged that Handy had sold the records to her for $2000, and he went on to say that she'd told him she'd borrowed the money from Paul Flagg, her former husband. 'Is that true?' Larkin demanded. Handy thought it a pretty good lie, better than he could have told; it put him in a bad light, but at least didn't reveal in any way that they had been lovers. He kept his mouth shut and waited to be fired from his job, which was all Larkin could do to him if he didn't want his own role in the wire-tapping to come out. But Larkin had too much on his mind to do any firing at the moment. He snapped, 'I'll attend to you later,' and Handy beat it."

Helm made a half turn to speak directly to me. "She was a woman who liked to talk about herself, so Handy knew about you and that you lived in West Amber."

"He was only a few minutes behind Larkin, but he had the advantage of not knowing where you worked or lived, so he wasn't side-tracked. Because it was still working hours, Larkin drove to the warehouse, while Handy saved time by taking a minute to look you up in the telephone directory. We know now that Mrs. Larkin had seen him arrive and had hidden the briefcase. Calmly she told him that she had given it to you and that you had driven off to put it in a safe place.

"Well, there he was with the woman who had stolen the records from him for another man, and he told her what he thought of her. She stood smiling and telling him that she really didn't care for him, and in a fit of fury he grabbed her by the throat. He says he wouldn't have hurt her. He was merely shaking her when the door flew open and Larkin came in.

"Larkin had his gun in his hand. Handy believes that as Larkin came around the side of the house he heard some of his bitter, angry words that left no doubt they had been lovers. So it was at his wife's lover Larkin shot. He missed. Handy saw murder in Larkin's eyes and knew he would keep shooting. He had gone for his own gun at the instant of the shot. He was much quicker and better with a gun than Larkin. He got him between the eyes."

Helm cleared his throat.

Hannah asked, "Then why didn't he claim self-defense?"

"It wasn't and he knew it. Larkin, as district attorney, had a legitimate right to go after those records with a gun. When the whole story of the records and the fact that Handy had been Larkin's wife's lover came out, it would look bad. But what really counted was that Larkin had evidently shot in defense of his wife's life. If she told the police that Handy had been choking her, he would be cooked. Everything depended on what she would say. And what she said right then was, 'You murdered him!' and became hysterical. The shots hadn't brought anybody, so Handy knew nobody else was in the house. He had to shut her up before her screams brought neighbors. He struck her on the head with his gun."

"The conclusion," I muttered. (To Be Continued)

Gen. Taylor is Unable to Find Seat in Chapel

SEOUL (AP)—Eighth Army Commander Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor missed chapel services Sunday because there was no place for him to sit.

After finding the chapel at his headquarters packed with soldiers, Taylor returned to his office and wrote a letter to Army Chaplain Earl D. Compton.

"I have always looked forward to the day when the 8th Army jails and hospitals would be empty and the churches full," the general wrote.

"I am most happy to find that at least the latter condition is being fulfilled."

Saying he hoped to find a seat next Sunday, Taylor called himself a "leading sinner in this community bedeviled by problems with short tails, and sorely in need of the confirmation of the church."

Little Trinidad Speedster, 19, Breaks World Indoor Mark for 100 Yard Dash

WASHINGTON — A small, dark-haired speedster from the island of Trinidad, just barely 19 years of age, ranks today as the latest and hottest candidate for the glittering title of "World's Fastest Human."

Little Mike Agostini turned in the most amazing clocking of the indoor track season Saturday night when he broke the world's annual record for 100 yards in the indoor Evening Star track meet here.

The Trinidad flyer was credited with a 9.6 second clocking, two-tenths of a second under the old record of 9.8 seconds set 30 years ago by Lewis Clark in Baltimore. More amazingly, the feat was accomplished in flat-soled shoes on an armory floor.

Agostini, who was 19 years old the same day said, "I promised that I would give myself a birthday present, and I guess I did."

Agostini, a freshman at Villanova, now looms as a leading Olympic threat to America's traditional supremacy in the sprint events. He will be wearing the colors of the British West Indies in the 1956 Olympics in Australia, if he fulfills his No. 1 track ambition.

Agostini won another sprint race on the Evening Star program, the 80-yard dash in a routine 8.2 seconds. In the 70-yard dash, however, he finished second behind Art Bragg of Morgan State College.

Agostini's record clocking caused a lot of raised eyebrows among the coaches present, some of whom openly expressed doubt of its accuracy. Four watches were used to time the finish — one caught Agostini in 9.5, two in 9.6, and one in 9.7. The final decision on the record, as on all American records, will be up to the annual convention of the National AAU next winter.

Olson Knocks Out Joey Rindone

SAN FRANCISCO — Middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson intends to keep his title when he fights Kid Gavilan April 2 because "being champion gives me more confidence and makes fighting easier."

Olson, whose next outing will be the title defense against the welterweight champ, backed his statement with his gloves Saturday night by knocking out tough Joey Rindone of Boston in the fifth round of a non-title fight.

What is there about football coaches, as a class, that makes them the biggest liars in sports when it comes to discussing prospects... or whether they're available for a job?

It's reported that Horace Stoneham still can't believe he signed Leo Durocher to a two-year contract last summer... The National Basketball Association, to be big league, has to move into cities like Chicago and Cleveland, or to the west coast with its sizable arenas.

That was quite a jump Floyd Patterson made in four years from a Brooklyn high school for truants to boxing's rookie-of-the-year.

Just to settle Patterson's official birth date, the records of Cleveland County, N. C., show he was born Jan. 4, 1935.

Jack Dempsey is the modern John L. Sullivan of boxing popularity — a status the current champ will never reach when he and his entourage snub the New York boxing writers' fete to loll at nearby Grossinger's.

Jim Braddock's advice to the writers for the new year: "Keep your left hand high and your derriere off the canvas."

Ten-second tete-a-tete with Coach Ken Loeffler of LaSalle: "Oklahoma A. and M. is not a great defensive team. It's just a poor defensive team." How do you explain the fine win and lost record? "Look where they play — in the cow country. Let 'em come back here. We'll take them on."

Show us a better foul shooter than Arnold Short of Oklahoma City, who sank 23 of 25 in one game, 17 of 18 in another... and once was turned down by virtually every school in Oklahoma.

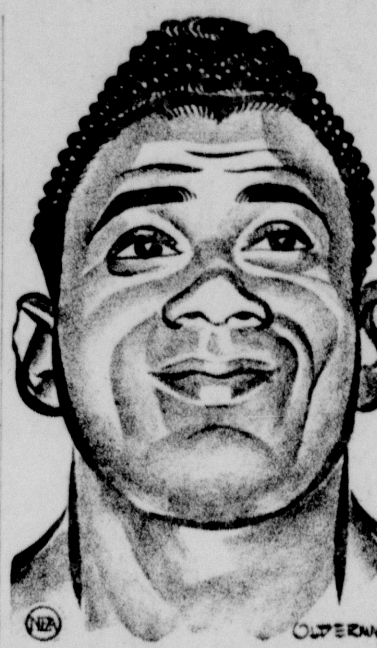

Pea-hod Walker relates Pat Tatum's complaint on the effect of a college education on coach-of-the-year son, Jim: "Before Jim went to college, he'd plow a row, saying to the critter in front of him, 'Whoa, Bee, Gee, Bee. Now when he comes to the end of the row, he says, 'Cease, Rebecca, pivot and proceed.'"

Only six players remain in Pittsburgh from the roster Branch Rickey inherited in the fall of 1950... The senior Pirate is pitcher Bob Friend, with only three years of major league experience.

George Little, the man who runs football's Hall of Fame at Rutgers University, coached Red Blaik at Miami of Ohio.

Hockey's best bet to become a game of and for the people outside of New England and Canada is to get rid of the blue line and open up the scoring.

Marcus Freiberger, the 6-11 ex-Oklahoma pivot, who went into the business world with the Peoria Caterpillars, has found better prospects with the Ada Oilers of Houston after four years... Rice's Gene Schwinger, tops in the Southwest, wasn't good enough to play more than one minute of his junior year in high school. The defensive ability determines whether you'll make it in pro basketball.

PROOF — Birth records show Floyd Patterson, boxing's rookie-of-the-year, to be 19. (NEA)

A baseball writer's paradise now has to be the International League, where you jump from Montreal to Havana as casually as Frankie flies to Europe to see Ava.

There's nothing less newsworthy than a baseball player signing his contract... We say again the only ultimate solution to basketball's fouling problem is to let the fouled team retain possession after the shot and give the defender a break on a drive-in shot.

A short-horn bull, weighing 2,925 lbs., which a buyer estimated would make 20,000 frankfurters, was sold on the Chicago market, June 4, 1942. The owner was Harry Hutchinson, Story County, Iowa. When slaughtered, the carcass weighed 1,840 lbs., representing a dressing yield of 63.6 per cent.

Six Top Cage Teams Lose in Week End Play

Moline, Rated No. 2 in State, Defeated by Elgin

SPRINGFIELD — Underdogs bowled over Illinois cage powers from Rockford to Mount Vernon this weekend in an outburst of upsets.

Moline, Mount Vernon, Edwardsville, Rockford East, Ottawa and Hillsboro all took it on the chin in week-end combat with foes they had been expected to overpower.

All six quintets are listed among the state's top 15 teams as rated by the United Press Board of Coaches—Moline No. 2, Mount Vernon 3, Edwardsville 6, Rockford East 8, Ottawa 10 and Hillsboro 15.

Moline, the only team to defeat defending state champion La Grange in two seasons, fell before Elgin 68-54 in the biggest surprise of the weekend.

Moline dropped behind at the start and never could catch up with Elgin, which chalked up its fifth straight win. Moline had lost only once in 14 previous games.

Another northern Illinois eyebrow-lifter came at Barrington, where the host Broncoes dumped Rockford East 69-67 Saturday. East had 11 wins in 12 contests before bumping into the Broncoes.

Barrington, which fashioned a fine 24-3 won-lost record last season, now has 13 triumphs and has lost only to Waukegan, by a 47-45 margin Jan. 2.

Mount Vernon, Edwardsville, Ottawa and Hillsboro all were tripped up in Friday night tilts. Hillsboro was idle Saturday, but the first three teams named rebounded with victories that night.

Mount Vernon followed up its 72-66 loss to Marion with an 85-40 wallop of Harrisburg, Ottawa, 69-57 loser to De Kalb Friday, came back Saturday to whip Aurora West, 75-55. Edwardsville lost 54-42 to Wood River Friday and then trounced Roxana 83-33 Saturday.

La Grange, ranked the best team in downstate Illinois through the season, easily mastered both of its weekend foes. The Lions whipped Glenbard 75-52 and Peoria Manual 92-47 for their 11th and 12th triumphs against their lone loss to Moline.

Centralia Wins Two
Quincy had only one test and steamrollered Mattoon, 78-39. The Blue Devils have a 13-1 record and are rated No. 5 in the U. P. listings.

Centralia, occupying No. 7 spot in the top 15, compared with four marks on the loss side of the ledger. The Orphans thumped West Frankfort 77-53 and Vandalia 69-59.

Litchfield, returning to action for the first time since it won its invitational tournament, downed Taylorville 73-56 Saturday. The Purple Panthers are regarded as a No. 9 team in Illinois and now sport a 15-2 record.

Decatur St. Teresa, rated 14th, had another rough-and-tumble battle with Decatur Lakeview but for the second time this season beat Lakeview by one point. Jack Weber tallied on a lay-up with 12 seconds of play left to give St. Teresa a 51-50 win.

Local Independent Five Defeats Ozark, 101-93

A Muddy-Harrisburg combination independent cage team travelled to Ozark Friday night and copped a 101-93 decision.

Logsdon was top scorer for the winners with 29 points, but high point maker for the evening was Gene Dicks of Vienna who paced

Major League Teams to Play 271 Exhibition Tilts

NEW YORK — The 16 major league clubs will play 271 exhibition games this spring, opening the "Grapefruit Circuit" season, March 6 and closing it April 12, it was announced today.

American and National league clubs will engage in 192 inter-league contests. Apart from those games, American league clubs will play 33 intra-league games and 15 contests with minor league teams. National league clubs have scheduled 41 additional games, virtually all against each other.

Twelve big league clubs will be situated in Florida this spring and the other four in Arizona. No teams will train in California this year for the first time since 1945 but the four teams training in Arizona, plus the St. Louis Cardinals, will fly from St. Petersburg, Fla., are scheduled to travel to California for exhibition games.

Di Francesca Named Head Grid Coach at Iowa State

AMES, Iowa — Vince Di Francesca, 32, former Northwestern university star and presently coach at Western Illinois State, is the new head football coach at Iowa State.

Dr. James H. Hilton, college president, announced Saturday Di Francesca will replace Emmett R. (Abe) Stuber, who resigned under pressure Dec. 15 after his 1953 Cyclones won only 2 of 9 games and finished last in the Big Seven.

Di Francesca will get $9,000 a year, plus $400 regular college annuity. He will hold the rank of assistant professor, giving him three-year tenure.

Di Francesca, a graduate of Evanston, Ill., high school in 1940, starred as a guard on Northwestern's football teams. He played two years at Northwestern, then entered military service for three years and returned to captain the Wildcats in 1947.

The Daily Register 25c a week the Ozark team with 37 points.

Players on the local team, in addition to Logsdon were Henshaw, Ziegler, Dardeen, Foster, Gidcomb, Romanosky and Fulkerson.

Eldorado Wins 53-43 Decision From Metropolis

The Eldorado Eagles, with a good fourth quarter, took a 53-43 decision from Metropolis Saturday night. The game was played at Eldorado.

The score was nip-and-tuck during the first three frames, but in the final canto the Eagles outscored their opponents 18-9, to take the ten point decision.

At the end of the opening quarter Eldorado led by a point, 9-8, but at halftime Metropolis had the one-point advantage, 22-21. The teams swapped the point in the third and with the game three-fourths over the Eagles again held a slim lead, 35-34.

As the fourth and final quarter started the Eagles spurred to a six point margin in the opening minutes, then held on to this advantage and finally stretched it to ten as time ran out.

Eagles Win Preliminary
Once again Mackovjak paced the winners' attack with 16 points. He hit for three points in each of the first three quarters, getting a fielder and free loss in each of the three frames, then collected three field goals and another charity loss in the last period, to account for the 16 markers.

However, Bartfield of the losers claimed scoring honors of the evening with 19 points, including 11 free tosses.

Saturday's victory marked the second of the season for the Eagles over Metropolis, as Eldorado edged out with a 58-55 decision over the rivertown team in the holiday tournament at Cairo.

Eldorado also took the preliminary game, 60-45.

The Eagles travel to Zeigler Tuesday night.

Sebo Signs as Penn Grid Coach

PHILADELPHIA — New football coach Steve Sebo laid plans today to trade in the single-wing attack long used by Pennsylvania's Quakers for the tricky, complex attack he taught to Michigan State's flashy backfields.

Sebo, backfield coach of Michigan State's Rose Bowl champions, was signed to a three-year contract as Penn's head coach on Saturday after the University had considered about 50 candidates to succeed retiring Coach George (Red) Munger.

The average salary of the classroom teacher advanced last year from about $3,240 to about $3,400.

Eisenhower Presents 8-Point Housing Program

Federal Housing Administration underwrite a greater portion of the mortgages required by low income families. He called for "a new and experimental program" authorizing the FHA to insure long term loans "of modest amounts" with low down payments on both new and existing housing for low-income families.

Mr. Eisenhower did not spell out details of the size of loan, the down payment of the terms.

40-year Loans

But the informants said the administration wants the FHA to be empowered to insure mortgages running up to 40 years with down payments as low as $200 to $350 on homes costing less than $8,000.

The Cole committee had suggested dropping the down payment requirement on smaller homes, but the President apparently wants some form of down payment retained. At present, FHA-insured loans require minimum down payments ranging from 5 per cent on homes costing less than $7,000 to 20 per cent on homes costing $20,000 or more. The maximum repayment period on most FHA loans is 25 years.

Other major phases of Mr. Eisenhower's program:

Slum Clearance: He proposed that Congress make immediately available for existing authorizations about 700 million dollars of loan funds and 250 million dollars in capital grant funds for the outright elimination of slums and a program for renovation and rehabilitation of salvable areas now sliding toward slum status. He also recommended a five-million-dollar appropriation to help states and metropolitan areas plan for eradication of slum conditions.

Housing Improvement: He recommended that the federal limit on insurance of repair and modernization of single-family homes be raised from the present $2,500 to $3,000. He proposed the maximum improvement loan term be extended from three to five years. In general the President also asked for improvement of mortgage insurance loan provisions on existing homes to make the maximum permissible terms comparable to those available for new housing. He said this should facilitate trading in older homes on new home purchases.

Housing for Minority Group Families: He asked that federal administrative policies of the housing agencies be strengthened "to assure equal opportunity for all of our citizens to acquire within their means, good and well-located homes." He said he would take steps to insure that minority group families had a "fair opportunity" to acquire adequate housing.

Modernization of the National Housing Act: He said Cole soon will submit recommendations for changing the basic National Housing Act, including a scale of mortgage ceiling more realistically related to the increased cost of all types of housing.

Broadening the Availability of Government-Guaranteed Mortgages

The President said Congress had given him limited authority to adjust the permissible terms on government-guaranteed mortgages. He wants this authority expanded to cover all loans issued by the FHA and guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

Secondary Mortgage Market: He proposed reorganization of the Federal National Mortgage Assn. to require its members "to invest funds on a basis which would eventually permit the full retirement of government funds from secondary market operations. In this recommendation, the President said the federal government should be permitted to buy the initial stock of the reorganized association, but that private investments should be built up to speed the retirement of this government investment.

Federal Housing Reorganization: He said he will submit to Congress a reorganization plan providing better grouping of housing activities under a central administrator.

Asserting that his program offers the means for providing "more and better homes," Mr. Eisenhower urged "early and favorable" congressional consideration.

First state to adopt an unemployment insurance law was Wisconsin, in 1932.
